Project DAWN (Deaths Avoided With Naloxone) is a community based drug overdose education and naloxone distribution program. Project DAWN provides free take-home naloxone kits to the public. Naloxone is a medication that can block the effects of opioids. Naloxone can reverse an overdose from an opioid and save a life if given in time!

The training is for community members who may be in contact with someone using an opioid that is at risk of an overdose.

Opioids are a group of drugs that includes prescription pain medications such as morphine, methadone, codeine, hydrocodone, hydromorphone, oxycodone, and buprenorphine. Vicodin®, Lortab®, Percocet®, OxyContin®, Dilaudid®, and Demerol® are common brand names of opioids. Heroin is also an opioid. Fentanyl is an opioid prescription medication that is often manufactured illegally and mixed with heroin or other street drugs.

A representative from the Mental Health and Recovery Board will also speak with the participants on caregiver support and treatment options. Participants will receive a Project DAWN kit and training on the following.

- Identifying risk factors for opioid overdose
- Recognizing an overdose
- Calling emergency medical services
- Giving intranasal naloxone
- Monitoring the person until help arrives
